

2. Andrásy Boulevard in Budapest and its historical surroundings

Another highlight of the Hungarian capital is Andrassy út with its Millennium Subway line and Heroes' Square at its apex. The broad shopping and residential street has been listed as a World Heritage Site since 2002 and is regularly referred to as the “Champs-Élysées of Budapest”. Its architectural star attractions are the State Opera House, the old Academy of Music and its Franz Liszt Museum, the Academy of Arts, and the street's corner houses decorated with unusual painted façades. Beneath the street level, continental Europe's first underground railway is still in operation.
